

Kids & Technology

www.kidsacademy.mobi

There's a lot of hype around issues that feature technology and kids. Such questions as how much time a kid should spend watching TV or playing with a smart phone spark a lot of controversy among parents. Some think that technology hinders kids' development; others see a lot of advantages in using gadgets.

Well, we are parents ourselves and we understand that the golden truth lies somewhere in the middle. All these gadgets as smart phones or tablets exist anyway. We can't ignore them as they shape the way we live. To some extent, they make our life easier and more versatile.

To make a better use of technology and to encourage our kids' development we decided to make educational apps. By doing so, we introduce our kids to the world of modern technology and help them develop skills they will need for life. Stick with us, we'll dedicate the next blog post to the topic of HOW to better use smart phones and tablets with children to get maximum advantage.

If you and your child are itching to start learning, try our learning app or math worksheets.

